ABOUT

The Resource Centre is Save the Children's free, online library. It is a critical tool to our organizational knowledge management and exchange. What's more, the public display of our knowledge helps position Save the Children as a global thought leader on child rights.

The library aggregates materials from across Save the Children and the child rights sector to provide its visitors with the most up-to-date resources. The materials cover all of the thematic areas in which we work. The resources come in different formats, ranging from reports, briefs and toolkits, to video formats such as webinars and e-learning.

HOW IT WORKS

The Resource Centre makes it easy to find materials on your topic of interest. Similar to Google and other search engines, you can enter a term in the search box and get relevant results. You can also find materials by navigating our categories, such as thematic area, publisher, author and keyword.

You can narrow down your search further by filtering your results, including by language, publication year, publisher, author, and more. Finding the material and knowledge you need has never been easier!
